Weber College
Selects Queen
During DanceSchool Event Launches New Journal for Student Body

For the purpose of honoring and naming the literary journal of the Weber Normal college, the students held a dance Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. The paper has been recently introduced at Weber and will be published throughout the remainder of the school term. Contributions, based on literary topics and bearing literary characteristics are contributed to the journal by both students and teachers. Suitable for the aim and purpose of the journal, the name of "The Craft" was given to it.

The dance was an elaborate affair. The hall was decorated in white with streamers and flowers forming the greater part of the adornment. Arranged around the hall were several booths, also decorated attractively. On the stage was built a ship and a throne for the queen. Miss Cleone Lindsay was chosen as queen. She was attended by eight daintily garbed maids. Miss Mabel Miller, Miss Marjory Brewer, Miss Lois Meredith, Miss Ruth Stevens, Miss Hazel Stone, Miss Verma Holgren, Miss Leon Carstensen and Miss Frances O'Neill. Miss Mary Rich carried the train of the queen, while Miss Lucile Schwaerdt carried the crown.

Applause greeted the entrance of the queen and her company into the hall. Dancing was opened after the ceremony.

One of the special features of the evening was a masked dance, whose appearance was the source of much mystery. After performing a solo dance, the masked dancer was auctioned to the highest bidder who received her as a partner for the evening. Francis Woods of the high school was the lucky bidder. The identity of the dancer has not been disclosed.

Dainty refreshments were served at the booths, and dancing continued until a late hour. The affair was declared by the guests to be one of the loveliest school social events of the year. Several of the faculty staff of Weber and a few invited guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chapple of Imlay, Nev., were the guests of Mrs. A. L. Glasman during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss E. Aland
Becomes Bride
of Alvin PayneApostle McKay Solemnizes
Wedding at Home on
Grant Avenue

One of the quiet weddings of the week was that of Miss Emily Aland, when she became the bride of Alvin Payne Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Aland, on Grant avenue. Apostle David O. McKay performed the wedding ceremony.

The bride was attractively dressed in a creation of blue silk and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and white carnations. She was attended by Miss Verla Richardson, bridesmaid, who was gowned in light brown and also carried roses. Phillip Combs acted as best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was given at the home. The Aland residence was decorated in chrysanthemums and roses, with a combination of formal and informal. The bride and groom left Wednesday morning for San Francisco, for their honeymoon. They will make their home in Ogden.

Miss Fontella Shupe became the bride of Eugene Thurston last Wednesday afternoon in the Salt Lake temple. Mrs. Thurston has been the honored guest at several affairs during the last few weeks, the foremost of which was a shower given by her mother. Thirty couples attended the affair, and a luncheon was served by the hostess. The table was centered by a large basket of pink and white chrysanthemums. Numerous gifts were presented. Mr. and Mrs. Thurston have left for a honeymoon trip to California. Upon their return, they will make their home in Ogden.

Mrs. R. Stephens is the guest of Mrs. Kate Zupone. Mrs. Stephens is returning from an extended trip in the east to her home in Salt Lake. While east, Mrs. Stephens was the guest of her daughter, Miss Paula Stephens, who is traveling with her company, "The Mystery Girl," retaining headquarters in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Robinson have returned from a two months' visit in the east. They visited Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Chicago, Washington, D. C., and points of interest in Virginia. While in Philadelphia and New York, Dr. Robinson did some research work.

The Gamma Kappa society served tea Tuesday afternoon, November 23 from three until four, in the domestic science dining room of the Ogden High school building. One hundred and fifty guests were present, including, in addition to the Gamma Kappa membership, the faculty, the student body council, the Classic staff, the Beta Club, the athletic association, and the chemistry club. George Allison, president of the society, with Sherma Hendemoot, Marion Mills and Evelyn Corey, received the guests. Miss Marie Willis and Miss Claudia Roberts poured, and assisting at the tea table were Misses Hope Fox, Helen Mills, Lucille Hoffman, Helen Froug and Anabelle Bruce. Late autumn chrysanthemums were effectively used as decorations, and a Japanese bowl of the same flowers formed the centerpiece of the tea table.

The Ogden Tennis club intends keeping active during the winter, and members and friends will be interested in knowing that the second club dance will be given next Friday at the Knights of Pythias hall. The first dance given a month ago was voted a success by about seventy couples, and the committee in charge predicts the second dance will be an even greater success. The dances are informal.
